The first time Simon got mad,
it was after he had caused a lot of mischief.
His father had punished him, and Simon was angry with the whole world.
He was so mad that he had a big temper tantrum.

In his room, where his father had sent him,
Simon banged noisily on the door.

Suddenly he discovered that a big ram was pounding the door along with him!

It was great, it was marvelous, it was magical to have a ram that charged after anything that made Simon mad. If Simon's father asked him for something, bam! The animal knocked him down.
