

Guidelines for a Book Proposal for a Popular/Lay Audience

General notes:

- ✓ Electronic submission is required.
- ✓ Do not send a complete book manuscript instead of a book proposal.
- ✓ Please understand that it can take two months or more to evaluate your book proposal.
- ✓ If you are sending the proposal to other publishers, please indicate that.
- ✓ WJK does not publish fiction, autobiography, or poetry.

Your book proposal should include the following ten elements:

1. Title of the book. Include the tentative title and subtitle for your book.
2. Author contact information. Please include your name, mailing address, email address, and phone number(s). Include two to three paragraphs about your present position, educational background, and previous publications, with special emphasis on how you are qualified to write the book you are proposing.
3. Book description. In 200-250 words, describe the book you are proposing. What is its nature, focus, purpose, or argument? What is its central thesis? Imagine that you are writing the jacket copy for the back cover of your book, or a description that would go into our catalog. What would you say to convince a potential reader to buy this particular book?
4. Annotated Table of Contents. Provide the working Table of Contents for your book, chapter by chapter. (If there are several parts or sections, group the chapters into those parts.) Beneath each chapter, include a brief (100-word) description of the chapter's contents. This summary should explain the focus and development of the chapter and indicate how it advances the argument of the whole book. Also, indicate whether the chapters will include reader-friendly elements like discussion questions.
5. Audience. This section will give your insights into two basic questions: 1) Why is your general topic important to readers, and what signs exist that there is a market for another book on this topic? 2) For what niche audience is this specific book written (e.g., mainline Protestants who are advocating for immigration reform)?

6. Author promotion. Please detail the ways in which you plan to promote this book to potential buyers. This is the place to outline your author platform, including some or all of the following:
 - ✓ speaking engagements at churches, conferences, and conventions
 - ✓ media contacts you already have
 - ✓ likely endorsers
 - ✓ blogging and social media presence
 - ✓ workshop and retreat leadership
 - ✓ additional writing and reviewing for magazines and newspapers
 - ✓ special sales to your organization

7. Competition: Please describe a handful of competing and complementary titles on this topic, giving publisher and year. What does your book offer that these others do not? How will your book be superior to or different from them?

8. Manuscript length: What is the estimated word count for the proposed book? (Figure approximately 300 words per double-spaced page in Times New Roman font.)

9. Date of completion: Indicate the date by which you expect to submit a completed manuscript.

10. Sample pages. Enclose a sample of 15-25 pages, perhaps of the introduction and a sample chapter, which shows your writing style in the book. These should be pages that are typical of the book as a whole, especially critical to your argument, or that give a good overview of the book.

Send your proposal to: submissions@wjkbooks.com. Please include your last name and proposal title in the subject line of your email.